Happy Anniversary!

Hi ladies!

Can you believe this year marks the 25th anniversary of Scenic City Women's Network? What a wonderful milestone! The Lord has indeed blessed in mighty ways.

Founded and sustained in prayer, Christian working women continue to be encouraged, equipped and energized to live out their faith in the marketplace. There are many reasons to praise God. Because of His blessings, we have added new programs like Connect2 and seen lives transformed through deepening relationships with God and with others. Here is what members are saying about SCWN:

"Scenic City Women's Network feeds the weary soul of working women in the marketplace"

"SCWN incorporates work is worship and is your assignment from God."

"SCWN offers programs that fit my schedule and provide networking opportunities with other Christian working women. This fellowship helps me remain focused on excellence in the workplace and in the Kingdom"

The future of marketplace ministry is full of hope and opportunity. Imagine a marketplace where Christ is the head of business! I invite you to become actively involved in this vital ministry. Lives, families and workplaces are being renewed and revitalized. We give all the praise and glory to God for His faithfulness! Because of the ministry of SCWN, many lives have been impacted for Jesus.

Happy 25th anniversary SCWN!

Blessings,

-Renee

Put Some Spine in Your Speech

Inject power into your remarks by eliminating words or phrases that weaken your message. We already know not to apologize needlessly. Here are some less obvious but equally important keys to communicate with clarity and force.

Skip the minimizing. Beware of beginning a conversation by saying: "I only want to talk about..." This leads listeners to think your comments are trivial, when in fact you want to make a critical point. Instead, say, "I'd like to discuss..."

Avoid the waffling "might". When you respond to a request by saying "I might be able to do that", you create more problems than you solve. It's better to make a promise forthrightly.

Project confidence, not doubt. By telling an associate: "If you can get to that today, we can rest easy", you're dropping a not-so-subtle hint that you want it done. A clearer alternative: "When you complete that today, we can rest easy." "If" introduces the possibility something may not occur. Using "when" conveys your confidence that others will follow through...and signals that the task really matters to us.
